A TRUST WELL KEPT.

The torrent of mutiny in India that had been gathering volume and force in secret for months had burst its barriers at last, and was sweeping along as though past all control. The gallant old Colonel Pratt had paraded his regiment in front of his bungalow, and, with his gray hair rippled by the warm breeze, had expressed to them his ill-founded confidence that, though all the other Sepoys rose in rebellion, they would never rise. His men, whom he always spoke of as "his children," greeted his speech with ringing cheers. Two hours after they had murdered the veteran, and, under their own chosen leaders, were marching to Delhi, their band playing, with the curious inconsistency for which the mutineers from first to last were famous, the English national anthem, "God Save the Queen." Allahabad had fallen. Every officer at the mess table, with one exception, had been butchered by the servant who stood behind him, and struck with his knife when the signal was given. The one who escaped the general doom, and who was called, when the story was told, the "Martyr of Allahabad," sprang through a window of the mess room, and reaching the banks of the Ganges plunged in and swam for many miles; hiding in the jungle during the day, and drifting with the current at night; suffering incredible hardships, to die of native fever induced by the exposure when friends and apparent safety were reached at last.

Other officers belonging to that ill-fated mess escaped. Not many, and those only because they were not at the table when the murderous signal was given. One of them, having been detained by regimental business, was hurrying to join his comrades when a woman stopped him by coming with a startling suddenness from the shadow of a clump of bamboos beside the road.

"Sahib, don't go on!" she said, speaking in her own language. "They are all dead by this time. Bonden Singh was behind your chair, his knife ready, and had you been in it you would have been with Allah now. Boden Singh was mad with rage, and waiting. He had waited so long that he said he could wait no longer. He wanted to murder you last night when you were asleep on the charpoy, but I told him if he did so it would not be easy to get the officers all together at the mess to-night. So he agreed to wait a little longer and stab you in the back, as the others were stabbed, while he stood behind at dinner. He has killed somebody else by this time, to make up for having missed you. Yes, it is terrible, but why did you put the grease on the cartridges? Ah, here they come!"

The butchery was over, and a troop of soldiers, accompanied by the servants who had slain their masters, were marching down the road, headed by a band playing "Rule Britannia." The woman who had spoken was Pooniah, the wife of the villain Bonden Singh. Bonden Singh was the "bearer," or body servant of the officer who had been warned. I was the officer.

"Quick, Sahib!" she exclaimed, hastily, as I stood irresolute in the middle of the road.

"They will see us in a minute. Hide in the clump of bamboos!" And in a moment we were crouching there, side by side, while the mutineers came on, marching with that steady military step that they had learned so well from their English masters. They had learned some other things, too, from the same teachers, and in the next few months they showed all too plainly that the seed of instruction had not been cast upon barren soil.

"Why did you put grease on the cartridges?" At that moment, with life and death hanging about evenly in the balance, those words and their evil interference were ringing in my brain. Assuredly the pork grease on the cartridges had in some degree hastened the mutiny. The cartridges of that day had to be bitten before they were used, and both Hindoo and Mussulman abhor the flesh of the pig, though the higher classes eat imported hams and bacon, and protest that they are not the same meat at all. The Sepoys had gone on biting the cartridges contentedly, and with no idea that they were putting the unclean thing into their mouths, until the rebellious rajahs, watching for such an opportunity, wilily pointed out the grievance. Several of the regiments protested and asked that the grease on the cartridges be changed, so as no longer to clash with their religious principles, and had the advice, strongly urged, of the astute Sir John Lawrence, then collector of Agra, afterward governor-general of India, been taken their requests would have been granted at once; but India's rulers, in the pride of a century's almost undisturbed possession, feared nothing, suspected no danger, and drifted blindly on to the sharpest crisis in England's later history.

A clump of bamboos is a good spot for a fugitive to hide in. It is an excellent place also for a party of soldiers to encamp by. The mutineers thought so, and, throwing themselves on the parched grass beside the road twenty yards from where we were hidden, they began to smoke and discuss in low, cautious tones, for they were still distrustful of themselves and each other, the prospects of the desperate venture to which they were now irretrievably committed.

It was quite light enough now to see that Boden Singh was not with the soldiers. Where has he gone to? I asked my preserver in a whisper. "He has gone to your bungalow, she replied, significantly. "He expects to find you there!"

Situated as I then was, forewarned and, therefore, forearmed, I was sincerely sorry that Boden Singh would not find me in my bungalow.

The clump of tall, thin bamboos were singing their endless song to the night breeze, felt by their sensitive, lofty tops, though not perceptible below; and, our voices lost to the mutineers in the groaning and creaking of the branches, I learned from Pooniah her reason for saving me. A few weeks previously, when the shadow of the advancing mutiny had fallen on the country. I caught Boden Singh, who could read and speak English remarkably well, about to open a letter given to me by a messenger from Sir John Lawrence to deliver to the commissioner of Jubbulpore. In view of the expected outbreak such an intention, if exposed, would infallibly have been quickly followed by Boden Singh's execution; but he had read nothing of the dispatch, and, yielding to Pooniah's entreaties, I was silent, and his life was spared.

"The time is close at hand, sahib," said the grateful wife, "when I may do for you what you have done for him, and"—she stooped down, picked up a small piece of earth and swallowed it, following a well-known custom of Hindoo fanaticism—"may this choke me if I betray the trust."

Bonden Singh, too, pledged himself to repay the debt I had placed him under. How the husband and wife kept faith with me the coming ordeal showed.

"Pooniah! Why are you here?" It was Bonden Singh who spoke. Coming by a short cut from my bungalow he had approached the rear of the clump and had nearly fallen over us. In another second he had seen me, and his knife—a carving knife from the mess table—was in his hand; and in the next I had him by the throat, disarmed, and on the ground. He would have shouted for help, but Pooniah stooped, and in quick, nervous tones whispered: "Boden Singh, utter one word and I will run out and say you were saving your sahib! You were his bearer, and gave him warning in time to prevent him from going to the mess table. How long do you think you would live after that was told? The sahib will spare your life again if you will promise not to join the mutineers. Lie quiet now, and you will never see me after to-night."

The villain saw his only chance for safety. Sullenly he gave the promise required of him, and lay still for twenty minutes. Then the Sepoys moved away, and half an hour later I, for the second time, allowed Boden Singh to go in peace.

"Sahib," said Pooniah, "I have kept my trust. I can do no more for you. Salaam." She was gone, and I never saw her again.

More fortunately than the "Martyr of Allahabad" I got safely into Lucknow, and came out with Sir Colin Campbell's men when they marched to our relief. It is, perhaps, needless to say that Boden Singh's word was broken. He was an active mutineer. I saw him for the last time near Cawnpore. He was one of a long line of Sepoys tied to a staked rope running forward from the muzzle of a shotted gun.

"Boden Singh, I said, "I cannot save you this time."

"Would you if you could?" he asked.

And as I looked on the traitor's face, and as recollections of the past crowded upon me, I could only reply:

"I don't think I would."

Rachel and Jacob.

This true story comes from an old sea-board town in Maine:

Jacob loved Rachel, but Rachel wouldn't have him. Jacob labored on, pressing his suit at intervals, and after each rebuff telling her he was bound to win her yet, and convince every one she cared for him as much as he in his heart knew she did.

'Very well,' cried the indignant Rachel, with a toss of her head, 'keep right on till you make folks believe that, and when you do I'll marry you!'

Jacob did persevere, but with small success, and at last began to lose courage. About this time another suitor of Rachel's arrived home from sea, bringing with him, among other exotics, a parrot of gorgeous hue, which he presented to Rachel, who forthwith had the bird suspended from the sitting-room window, whence she looked out afternoons when her work was done. For a day or two after his elevation to this dignity the parrot remained marvelously quiet, only casting an eye about as if taking in his new situation. On the third morning, however, no sooner did the neighbors begin to stir than he electrified each passer-by with the announcement:

'Rachel's gone on Jacob; no chance for John!'

Of course the more laughter this raised the more vociferously the bird proclaimed the news. It spread like wildfire, and the parrot's audience steadily increased. Rachel, meanwhile, went into hysterics, but however much this incommoded the family it made no impression on the parrot, who, although threatened and beaten and relegated to darkness, waxed more and more furious with desire to spread his knowledge.

Jacob kept out of the way for a while, but there was no lack of couriers to bring him information of the other fellow's discomfiture and the parrot's heroic defense of his cause. At last Rachel's father appeared, wearing on his weather-beaten face an odd mixture of frown and grin.

'Look a-here,' he said, 'between that infernal bird's screechin' an' folks a cracklin', that gal's a'most out o' her head. There's nothin' for you to do but go over there and try to fix up things as well as ye can. I guess most likely she'll see you—I do' no, folks can't always tell.'

The upshot was that Rachel married Jacob, who sticks to it that it was the penetrative wisdom of his rival's parrot that did the business, and denies to this day all knowledge of the way the parrot came by his speech.

Are Twice Two Four?

Mr. Frank Galton somewhere tells an amusing story, since profusely copied by all the anthropologists, of how, during his South African wanderings, he once wanted to buy a couple of sheep from an unsophisticated heathen Damara. Current coin in that part of the world is usually represented, it seems, by cakes of tobacco, and two cakes were the recognized market prices of a sheep in Damara land at the time of Mr. Galton's memorable visit. So the unsuspecting purchaser chose a couple of wethers from the flock, and naturally enough laid down four pieces of tobacco to pay for them before the observant face of the astonished vendor. The Damara eyed the proffered price with suspicious curiosity. What could be the meaning of this singular precipitancy? He carefully took up two pieces, and planted them in front of one of the sheep; then he took up the other two pieces, with much wonder, and placed them in front of the other. Goodness gracious, there must be magic in it! The sum actually came out even. The Damara, for his part, didn't like the look of it. This thing was evidently uncanny. How could the super-naturally clever white man tell before hand that two and two made four? He felt about it, no doubt, as we ourselves should feel if a great mathematician were suddenly to calculate out for us a "priori" what we were going to have to-day for dinner, and how much exactly we owed the butcher. After gazing at the pat and delusive symmetry of the two sheep and the four cakes of tobacco for a brief breathing space, the puzzled savage, overpowered but not convinced, pushed away the cakes with a gesture of alarm, took back his sheep to the bosom of his flock and began the whole transaction over again "de capo." He wasn't going to be cheated out of his two sound wethers by a theoretical white man who managed bargains for live sheep on such strictly abstract mathematical principles.

Unfilial "Prince John."

While his father was President young John Van Buren visited England, and, as the son of the President of the United States, he received great attention. He dined with the Queen, who was then a young girl, where his superior grace of manners, fine conversational powers and witticisms made him appear to greater advantage than the titled flunkeys who were around Her Majesty. He attended one of the balls at Buckingham Palace and danced with her, and the story was told that Her Majesty became very sweet on him. It was this incident that gave him the cognomen of "Prince John." There was another story in circulation about him which illustrates his want of special reverence for his father. The old gentleman and John had a habit of lying in bed in the morning. Finally, one day the former said to his son that a reform must be instituted—that both must rise earlier. The hopeful agreed and suggested that the first one who got up should go to the room of the other and pull him out of bed! This was agreed to. John was out all the following night on a "lark" and did not reach home till next morning about 5 o'clock. He went to his father's room and took hold of him for the purpose of pulling him out of bed. The old gentleman protested against being disturbed, saying he had not had sufficient sleep. "Look here, governor, it was your own proposition that we should institute a reform in regard to lying in bed so late. Here I am, up at your request, and you won't fulfill your part of the agreement. Remember, the one who got up first was to pull the other out of bed. So now get up, or I'll pull you out." Tell it not in Gath! This young scamp made the President of the United States get up in spite of himself. After seeing the old gentleman dress himself the rascal sneaked to his own room and was soon in his bed asleep. The story got out by John telling on his father to a lot of boon companions. John afterward became a famous lawyer and politician.

That Agent Lacked Push.

'About four weeks ago,' said a farmer on the market the other day, 'I concluded to get rid of several old stumps near the barn, and I came in and purchased some giant cartridges. Next afternoon I went at the job, and had just got a cartridge tamped down in the first stump when I saw a man drive up to the house. That was nothing to bother over, however, and I lighted the fuse and ran around the barn to wait for the explosion. I had only got in place when I heard a voice calling:

'"Ah! there Sharp! I want to sell you the best washing-machine ever made.'

'It was the chap who had driven up, and my wife had sent him to hunt me. He was within ten feet of the stump when he called. I had a two-minute fuse on the cartridge when I heard his voice, and I called back:

'"For Heaven's sake get out o' that!"

'"Oh, I'll get out after I have sold you a machine. Sharp, where are you?"

'Well, sir, you can have my ears if that infernal idiot didn't walk up and rest his elbow on the stump, and he was there when she exploded. He took a rise of six or eight feet, came down spread eagle fashion, and then scrambled up and made for his wagon with slivers sticking out all over him. When he went by the house my wife asked him if the machine saved ten per cent. in soap, but he never answered nor came to a halt. He just sailed over the forewheel to his seat on the wagon, gave the horses a cut with the whip, and was a mile away when I went out to the road to inquire if his machine was full-jewelled.'—Detroit Free Press.

Johnny's List of Best Books.

Sir John Lubbock's list of 'one hundred best books' has created wide comment and induces several other persons to prepare a little list. Old Simeon Sipples asked his fourteen year old son Johnny the other day to write down what he considered the best one hundred books, and the youth immediately began as follows:

1. 'Yellow-haired Nance: The Pet of the Slums.'

2. 'Double-jointed Jake: The Circus Boy.'

3. 'Blue-devil Dick: The Indian Exterminator.

4. 'Squint-eyed Bob: The Roller Rink Detective.'

5. 'The mysterious Demon; or, The Ghost of Shantyto—'

At this point Johnny's father, who was looking over his son's shoulder, brought his rattan cane down so vehemently on a spot where it would do the most good that the titles of the remaining ninety five books were obliterated from the corridors of his memory and the list will never be finished.

Love vs. Friendship.

I sat in my office, my chair tilted backward and resting on the wall. The smoke of my cigar circled upward in fleecy ringlets. But before I attempt any more figurative language, I will tell who, and what and where I am!

My name is Leslie Randolph, and I was a rising young lawyer at the time, with considerable practice. The town in which I had the honor to have a home, was C——, which name, as it stands, you will not find on the map.

I was still in the horrible state of bachelordom.

I sat in my office and tried very hard to think about an important case that was to be tried that day, in which I was counsel for the defense; but, strange to say, my thoughts would revert to the stranger whom I met the night before, who did seem to me a good kind of a young lady.

But my heart was impregnable to female charms. But—well, maybe I did think I'd like to have a wife like Miss Lindley. I wasn't going to think about it any more. I wasn't going to be a fool—not I!

'Perhaps,' my thoughts ran, 'it would be pleasant to fall in love with her. Wonder if I'm not more than half smitten.'

Then I would break off suddenly and begin to rehearse my speech in the case of Brown vs. Smith most heroically.

But it was strange that I got terribly confused, so that I got the names Brown and Smith terribly mixed up and did once in a while get the name Lindley in.

My thoughts were broken off suddenly by the abrupt entrance of my friend, John Carlisle, known to the public as 'Dr. Carlisle.'

We had been playmates in youth, and as we grew up we remained firm friends. Whenever one was fortunate the other rejoiced. When we met he called me 'Lee' while I called him 'Jack.'

'Morning, Lee!' said he, as he took a chair and sat down.

'Good morning, Jack!' returned I, wondering what he'd say if he knew what I had been thinking of just now.

'Lee, I've come to tell you something,' said he, as he began to fidget with a button on his coat.

'Tell ahead Jack.'

'Well, Lee, you remember last night at Jones'?'

Did I? That was the very place I had met Miss Lindley, and Jack Carlisle had been there too. I merely nodded assent, and he continued:

"Lee, I believe I'm more'n half way in love!'

Ah, he was, was he? Then I wasn't the only one who had been affected. I wondered whom Jack did like!

'Humph!' I growled merely to draw him out.

'You needn't humph, Lee. It's so. You don't know what it is to——' And the doctor, without giving expression to the all-important word, lit a cigar.

'Well, Jack,' ventured I, 'Who is the favored one?'

'Who, indeed, Lee!' said the doctor with a laugh.

Like a flash of lightning it occurred to me that Dr. Carlisle had flirted a little more with her than he ought to have done.

'Miss Lindley?' I gasped, and I felt pale, and shouldn't wonder a bit if I was pale.

'To be sure!' laughed the doctor.

'You, Jack Carlisle! You in love with Miss Linley! She will be mine, sir!'

And for want of a table upon which to bring my fist I brought it down upon my knee, to the slight discomfiture of that member.

'What!' thundered he. 'Yours? You aspire to the hand of Miss Lindley? You, sir?"

It is strange how jealousy will transform the warmest friends to the bitterest enemies.

'Yes, sir!" said I, fiercely. 'Mine, sir!'

'We'll see!' exclaimed the exasperated doctor, as he bolted out of the office. We'll see!'

During the trial I conducted myself creditably, and even won the case, at which I was greatly astonished. When the trial was passed, I went straightway to my office and enjoyed a full hour of love dreaming, and during that time I made up my mind to see Miss Lindley that evening, not a very fashionable evening, by the way, being Saturday.

I found her at home, and willing to see me. After some remarks about the weather, fashions and sundry other things, I said:

'We met last evening for the first time, Miss Lindley.'

It was the first time I had called her by her name.

'Miss Lindly!' said she, with a laugh. 'I am married, Mr. Randolph, and am Mrs. Lindley, as I had occasion to remark to your friend, Mr. Carlisle, a few minutes ago.'

I don't know how I got out of the house, nor do I recollect whether I bade her 'good-by' or not. The next thing that I very distinctly remember was running against a lamp-post, on the street, in which affair my nose came off second best. I went to my hotel and then to bed, resolving to remain a bachelor all my life.

The next day Jack and I made a solemn vow that we would remain firm friends for the remainder of our natural lives, and furthermore that we would not marry until both were willing. We then went into co-partnership for the purpose of hiring a room jointly, and we met with great success.

Six months passed, and nothing had occurred to mar our friendship, when a gentleman named Leighton came from a distant city to live at C——. We were soon acquainted with him, and through him, with his family, consisting of his wife and two daughters, Nina and Lillie. It was not long before I had no doubt at all as to whether I was in love with Nina Leighton or not. Jack did not suspect me, and I wasn't afraid he would fall in love. One evening we sat reading, when I introduced the subject.

'I'm glad I didn't marry!' and an interval of silence followed. Then suddenly:

'Lee!'

'Well?'

'So am I!' and again silence, broken by Jack.

'Lee!'

'Well?'

'What do you think of Miss Leighton?'

'Why so?'

'Well you see, Lee, I am over head and ears in love with her.'

'Ah!' gasped I, as I stared at him.

'What do you think?'

'I think, Joe Carlisle, that you are a blamed fool for trying to cross my path! Do you mean to act in opposition to me again,' exclaimed I, as I sprang from my chair.

'What!' shouted he. 'Do you mean to say, Lee Randolph, that you love Lillie Leighton?'

'Hold on, Jack" said I, with a sigh of relief. 'No, I don't. It's Nina.'

'Ah, Lee, as good a fellow as ever,' said he, as he grasped my hand. 'I wish you success in your undertaking.'

'Ditto, Jack,' and I returned his pressure. 'I hope we may both be lifted out of our bachelorship.'

'I hope so, Lee, I hope so.'

The next day was very nearly a repetition of that with which my story opens. I did get her name strangely mixed in with the names of my clients.

The next day was Wednesday, and we went together to see the Leightons. We were in opposite corners, they at the piano, Nina and I on the sociable.

I won't enter into details. Enough I didn't hurt my nose by running against a lamp-post, but, confidentially, reader, my lips came in contact with some sweet thing, and the result was—a smack. Immediately after this something reached our ears from the other side of the room, which greatly resembled it.

So you see that, in both the cases aforesaid, jealousy was, indeed, 'Love's labor lost.'

Jack Carlisle sits across the table, there, and says he can read what I write, even if it is 'upside down' to him, and I begin to believe it when he laughs at me for being jealous of him. Just as if he wasn't jealous.

"THANKS."

A correspondent writes to the New York Journal of Commerce that in conversation with a friend some time since he stated that the use of 'Thanks' in place of 'I thank you,' was highly improper, and was like using 'gents' for 'gentlemen,' and she asks for information upon the subject. The Journal says:

We have answered this several times by mail for ladies who were too timid to have their little notes appear in print, but we desire to give an answer that, as far as our readers are concerned will set the question at rest. Many have written against this brief utterance, and not a few have denounced it as modern slang. This is wholly a mistake; it is good old English, and as unexceptionable as any phrase in the English language. Shakespeare puts it in the mouth of his most cultured characters. In 'Twelfth Night' Sebastion says:

My kind Antonio,
I can no other answer make but thanks,
And thanks, and ever thanks.

In 'Measure for Measure' Isabel says:

Oh, were it but my life,
I'd throw it down for your deliverance
As frankly as a pin.

Claudic—Thanks, dear Isabel.

And further on we have from the duke himself, 'Thanks, dear friend, Escalus,' and 'Thanks, Provost, for thy care.' In other plays we have 'Thanks, good Egeus,' 'Thanks, Pompey,' 'Thanks, sir,' 'Thanks to your majesty,' 'Thanks, gentle uncle,' 'Thanks, noble peer,' 'Thanks, gentle sir,' Thanks, gentle Norfolk,' 'Thanks, good Montgomery,' 'Thanks, gentle Somerset,' 'Thanks, noble Clarence,' 'Thanks, my lord,' and many more, enough to redeem any repetition of it from the charge of being 'highly improper.'

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, MAY 6TH, 1886.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

NEARLY all the papers in the state agree that Gen Beaver, of Bellefonte, will be the Republican nominee for Pennsylvania's governorship. Not nearly all are willing to consider his election a settled matter.

SECRETARY MANNING'S dangerous illness, which it is reported will necessitate his retirement from the Treasury, excites general sympathy. His official life was so well ordered and the Treasury Department under his management in such a satisfactory and equitably adjusted condition that people of all classes learned to respect him as a man and official. He handled his trust so efficiently that the people came to regard him as one who did honor to his party as well as to the country-at-large. The exit from office of such a man would be something really deplorable.

SOUTHERN industries have been looking up to an astonishing degree in the last few years. New establishments, manufacturing a great variety of different articles, are springing up in the South, among them four iron works, three cotton factories, nineteen ice factories, seventeen machine shops, three stove and three implement manufactories, eighteen steam mills, twenty-four tobacco factories, seven furniture and nine gas factories, twelve manufactories of electric light, seven carriage factories, 110 sawmills, and 28 mining companies. In new enterprises, and the enlargement and renovation of old manufactories, about $15,000,000 more than in the corresponding quarter of last year were invested. This capital is divided among the different Southern states as follows: Alabama $3,345,500; Arkansas, $6,110,000; Florida, $485,000; Georgia $530,000; Kentucky, $9,648,200; Louisiana $579,000; Maryland $2,215,500; Mississippi $135,000; North Caroiina $715,200; South Carolina $90,000; Tennessee $2,324,000; Texas $1,991,000; Virginia $4,502,500; West Virginia $3,486,800.

Treasurer Quay's Appointments.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 2.—Colonel M. S. Quay will assume charge of the State Treasury to-morrow, and arrived here to-day for that purpose. He as yet does not know who his working force will be; but it is certain that Livsey, of Alleghany, the present Treasurer, will be Cashier; Greenawalt, of Franklin, Chief Clerk, and Stott, of Chester, one of the clerks. B. P. Thompson, of Montgomery, will be retained, and another Philadelphian will take the place of Auter, the colored messenger.

The President's Interview with Mr. Manning.

Washington Dispatch to the Baltimore Sun.

When the President called upon Secretary Manning a day or two since the question of the Secretary's resuming his duties was discussed. Mr. Manning spoke of the serious nature of his attack and what a narrow escape he had made and then told the President candidly that he had come to the conclusion that it was best for him not to go back to the Treasury. The President, of course, regretted this decision, but he could not gainsay the arguments of the Secretary. It was understood, however, between them that Mr. Manning will not at present send in his resignation, but will give the President ample time to look around for a proper successor. Assistant Secretary Fairchild, who has been acting as Secretary during the illness of Mr. Manning, may possibly be appointed, although it is reported in inside circles that the President contemplates selecting some one who will be acceptable to the stalwart element of the Democracy, which is now so thoroughly dissatisfied.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

Upwards of 100,000 Men Demanding Eight Hours without Reduced Wages.

35,000 OUT IN CHICAGO ALONE—ALL THE FREIGHT HANDLERS QUIT WORK AND LEAVE BUSINESS PARALIZED—NEW YORK, BOSTON WASHINGTON AND OTHER EASTERN CITIES JOIN IN.

The movement for eight hours, which was inaugurated on Saturday and still continues, is very general, especially in the west. It is estimated that upwards of 100,000 workmen are engaged in the movement, and there is every indication that this great army will grow to a much larger magnitude.

In Chicago many thousands of workmen are idle. The trades most effected are the furniture manufactures, the lumber interests and the iron men, although every business in the city is implicated. The railroads, too, are great sufferers, for the freight handlers have, for the most part, joined the movement. There is a practical lock-out in the furniture factories, and it is estimated that 7,500 men there are clamoring for eight hours and no reduction of pay. A somewhat similar situation exists in the box factories and planning mills. A special committee of the Lumbermen's Exchange decided not to grant the demands, and an immense procession made the rounds of the lumber yards on Saturday and all the workmen quit. This strike involves 12,000 men, mostly Poles, Bohemians and Germans and the most dangerous element of Chicago.

Many of these are Socialists and red flags were carried in their procession. They held a mass meeting in the afternoon and some of the orators favored the destruction of the lumber yards where their demands were refused. Although there has been some concessions among the iron men, for the most part the mills are closed. Five hundred freight handlers marched on the Wabash yards, where they were joined by more strikers, and the procession growing continually made the circuit of the railroads and gathered in a good proportion of their brethren. The men in the pork-packing establishments are making their demands, but have not as yet received their answer. The exact status of the movement in Chicago cannot be determined at present.

Six hundred employes of furniture factories in Cincinnati have started the movement there, which is expected to spread. In Milwaukee 3,000 malsters and brewers have struck for an advance of wages and in Detroit 250 journeymen brewers have quit work. The furniture manufacturers of St. Louis have granted eight hours on a like basis of pay. All the St. Louis plumbers have struck. The men in the planing mills are expected to quit to-day. The men employed in the East St. Louis Water Works have stopped. Nearly all the furniture factories in Pittsburg and Allegheny City are idle and the carpenters will strike to-day.

The movement in the East has not yet assumed great proportions, but unless the demands of the laborers are conceded or there are mutual concessions great strikes are looked for during the week. In New York, Boston and Baltimore, there is much uneasiness, and especially in New York the workingmen are clamorous for a reduction of the hours of labor without a proportionate reduction in wages. There was an immense mass meeting in Union Square on Saturday night and the speakers, the principal of whom was John Swinton, called loudly for their rights.

State of Affairs in New York.

New York, May 3.—The Piano makers Union last night ordered a strike for 8 hours in all the shops under their control, whether the shops had voted for or against the change. About half of New York's 40 piano manufacturers conceded the demand this morning, but with eight hours' pay. Steinway's men all except 20 casemakers, ignored the Union orders. About 500 furriers struck because the employers refused to make 8 hours a day's work. In the furniture trade most of the large firms compromised with the men on 9 hours pay. The sentiment in favor of 8 hours, either with or without 8 hours pay, seems to be overwhelming among workingmen. Many of the large piano and furniture makers believe, however, that there will be a perceptible return to 10 hours whenever trade becomes brisk.

A Labor Parade in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., May 3—A Parade, under the auspices of the Can Makers' Mutual Protective Union, started at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and went through the principal streets of the city, with music and colors flying. The 1,600 house-carpenters who struck for 8 hours, the brickmakers and various other trades took part in the movement There were several thousand persons in the line, and good order prevailed. The whole police force of the city was on duty to prevent any breach of the peace.

Strike in the Building Trade in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 3.—Strikes were inaugurated this morning by the stone masons, carpenters and plasterers for a reduction from ten to nine hours a day. About 1,000 men in all quit work.

The laborers at the Court House, to the number of 40, and 22 journeymen bakers in two shops also struck to-day for a decrease in hours. The number of men in this city now engaged in the movement is estimated at 3,000.

Want Shorter Hours at the Hub.

Boston, May 3—About 4 000, men comprising a majority of the masons, carpenters, painters and plumbers of Boston, struck this morning for shorter working days.

RIOT IN CHICAGO.

Several Persons Reported Killed and Wounded.

A riot occurred in Chicago near Morgan and Twenty-second streets on Monday afternoon. A crowd of strikers, numbering over 12,000, congregated near Clark Brothers' planing mill, and demolished all the windows of that building by a rain of stones. From there the infuriated mob, which grew in numbers as it moved along, until it had fully reached the number of 20,000, drew up with a mighty roar in front of McCormick's Reaper Works, where they continued their work of wholesale destruction. Stones crashed through the windows and clubs carried away the sashes. Nothing escaped the fury of the mob. The riotous strikers were finally dispersed by the 200 policemen, who had arrived upon the scene in squads of 12, each squad being received with a hail of stones. They advanced upon the strikers with leveled revolvers, the contents of which were emptied into the dense mass of people several times and at last had the desired effect.

During the riot, five strikers were shot, two fatally. Four officers were slightly injured, and Assistant Superintendent C. J. Bewby, of the McCormick works, was hit with a stone in the face and badly hurt

The Curtin Committee's Work.

St. Louis, May 3.—The Congressional Committee sent out here to investigate labor troubles on the Southwestern system of Railroads divided into sub-committees on Sunday, and one of them, consisting of Mr. Crain, as Chairman, and Messrs. Buchannan, Parker and Outhwaite, left here by special train for Parsons, Kansas; Dennison and Fort Worth, Texas; and Texarkana and Little Rock, Arkansas, where they will take testimony. The other committee, composed of Governor Curtin, Chairman, and Messrs. Stewart and Barnes, will leave to-day for Atchison, Kansas City, Sedalia and Jefferson, where they will take evidence of leading railroad men and Knights of Labor. At a late hour last night Governor Curtin informed an Associated Press reporter that he had been in communication and negotiating with Messrs Baily, Hayes and Barry, members of the General Executive Committee, with the view of amicably adjusting the differences between the striking Knights and the railroad management, and that he had high hopes that his efforts would be successful. He felt quite confident, he said, that the country within one or two days would receive the gratifying intelligence that the great strike has been brought to a close, and in a manner satisfactory to all concerned.

The Great Railroad Strike Ended.

Declared off by the Knights of Labor.

St. Louis, May 3.—Late on last Saturday night Mr. J. W. Hayes, Mr. William H. Bailey and Mr. T. B. Barry, members of the Executive Board of the Knights of Labor, met the Congressional Committee, of which Gov. Curtin is chairman, informally, and the meeting led to the happy result of the Knights declaring the strike off.

Governor Curtin said that the result was due in a great measure to the untiring efforts of the Executive Board of the Knights of Labor. After having been approached by the investigating committee they at once used every effort to have the strike terminated for the sake of peace and the interests of all the people, and especially the business interests of St. Louis.

New National Bank at Pottstown.

Washington, April 29.—The Comptroller of Currency to-day authorized the National Iron Bank, of Pottstown, Pa., to begin business with a capital of $200,000.

Last Week's Fires.

Baltimore was visited by a great conflagration on Thursday night of last week. A number of large mercantile firms were completely burned out and the loss foots up about $600,000. Another disastrous fire occurred the day following in San Francisco, Cal., when a large furniture firm and a stationer's firm lost $810,000.

A Tramp Falling Heir to $40,000.

West Chester, April 30.—A few weeks ago a Cuban tramp cigar-maker, with 50 cents in his pocket, secured work at his trade in Oxford at $4 per week. His story was that he had arrived in New York city a few weeks before with $2,000, which he had lost by associating with evil companions, and he was a financial wretch in consequence. Yesterday he recieved a letter from his Cuban home informing him that his brother had died, leaving him heir to $40,000, and the next train took him out of town.

"WHAT WAIT I FOR?"

The Subject of Sam. Jones' Sermon.

Look here, brother. In the first place you don't believe what you say about this. If there's anybody that ought to be happy and cheerful and enjoy themselves, it is the Christian! Isn't that so? And these old fellows you see mumbling and moaning about the church—that ain't religion. It is liver disease that's got hold of 'em. There's many a fellow thinks he's got heart religion, and there's nothing the matter with him except liver complaint. That's so! I've been that way myself. I know how it is. I can laugh and I can enjoy anything. If that's what you think, you needn't come to the altar to me to night. You get Simmons Liver Regulator, that's what cured me.

MAY BLOSSOMS.

Bright, beautiful and charming as May blossoms comes the American Agriculturist for May. With this number appears the first of the series of Engravings of the Homes of four Farmer Presidents—twenty-three inches long, seventeen inches wide, executed in the best style of art, and presenting a complete view of Monticello. The Engraving likewise embraces front and back views of the residence, the tomb of Jefferson, and also neighboring objects of interest. The long and complete description of the engraving by James Parton, the American historian, will be read with surprising interest. The Engravings are presented to all subscribers to the American Agriculturist as they appear. The price of the American Agriculturist, English or German, is $1.50 a year.

SWEPT BY FIRE.

AN ERIE COUNTY VILLAGE ALMOST ENTIRELY DESTROYED.

Thirteen Families Houseless and at the Mercy of Vicious Tramps.

PITTSBURG, May 2.—Fairview, Erie County, was flame-swept this afternoon, and scarcely a vestige of the business portion remains. The conflagration broke out in Caughey's livery stable, and under the impetus of a strong wind which increased to a gale to Krieder's carriage factory, Weislogg's residence and store, John Beck's residence, blacksmith shop McCrorrey's tenement house, Schumaker's Hotel, Cole & Co.'s general merchandise store, Faton's dry goods store, post-office, American Hotel, Lozner's store, Larne's store, Smith's buildings, McCrory's block Caugney's residence, destroying them all before the flames could be checked. Thirteen families lost their household goods, and to-night are homeless, without any resources. The Burgess has mustered a large force of deputies to protect the property from rayages and tramps, and to prevent a further spread of flames. The total loss will reach $100,000, on which there is an insurance of $20,600. The town is one of the olden time, being inland and without any particular enterprise. It is almost entirely ruined.

LOCAL NEWS.

—May !

—SUBSCRIBE for the JOURNAL.

—Bright's disease is killing Ex-President Arthur.

—C. A. Sturgis, of Lewisburg, was up on Monday.

—First-class job work done at the JOURNAL office.

—Last Friday, the last day of April, was uncomfortably cold.

—No danger of anybody getting drunk in Millheim just now.

—Editor Harter, of the Middleburg Post, was in town on Sunday.

—Elias Kreamer, of Winfield, Union county, was in town on Monday.

—Regular meeting of the B. & L. Association next Monday evening.

—The Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. will meet at Harrisburg, May 18th.

--Beyond a doubt Kauffman's store is headquarters for general merchandise.

—Regular services in the Lutheran church of this place next Sunday afternoon.

—Dr. S. G. Gutelius and family are absent on a visit to Union county friends.

—Next in season to fishstories will be the snake stories. Now let them down easy.

—Yesterday afternoon a welcome and refreshing rain settled the dust on our streets.

—Where, oh where is the organ grinder this spring ? Perhaps he too is on a strike.

—That popular pastime, quoit pitching, has been taken up again by our sportive gents.

—We would propose that the H. & L. Co. be ordered out for drill some evening next week.

—The fruit trees in the orchards and yards are nearly all blooming and present a fine sight.

—Mrs. Jon. Harter returned from Harrisburg last Saturday evening, after an absence of over a week.

—Miss Beatty, of Spring Mills, came to town last week to keep house for David Ulrich and his father.

--Dr. John F. Harter, Main street, is beautifying the interior of his residence, by having some new paper hung.

—Those outdoor concerts by our band, which occur more frequently of late, are delightful to our town people.

—Wm. Walker's house on Main street, occupied by John Auman, is being repainted and fixed up in general.

--Nothing looks as dressy on a gentleman than a stylish straw hat, such as are sold at Kauffman's store. Have one ?

—The closing out sale of J. Spigelmyer, beginning May 3rd. Don't forget it. Goods to be bought at spot cash.

—Never speak flippantly of neighbors before children. They may meet the neighbor's children and have a talk about it.

—The expected awning in front of Miller's butcher shop was put up this week, and John is now certain that he can keep cool.

—It is said by old people that not since 1828 was vegetation and foliage so far advanced at Easter time as it was this year.

—The festive spring bonnets perched upon the heads of the ladies, are making their appearance and are duly admired and—criticised.

—The veterans of this place will meet to-morrow evening for the purpose of organizing the G. A. R. post, spoken of in our last issue.

—D. A. Musser and wife, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. A. Walter, took a short trip to Bellefonte on Tuesday, returning yesterday morning.

—"A stitch in time" often saves consumption. Down's Elixir used in time saves life. For sale by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—Mr. Charles Wetzel, who during the winter held a position in Musser & Smith's hardware store, has retired from said place and left town week before last.

—If you want to know where goods can be bought to best advantage, consult the advertising and local columns of your home newspaper and you will never go amiss.

—Bad drainage causes much sickness. Bad blood and improper action of the liver and kidneys is bad drainage to the human system, which Burdock Blood Bitters will remedy.

—Robinson's building of the little Wooden Church in the Methodist auditorium on last Friday evening was an interesting entertainment and was enjoyed by a fair-sized audience.

—A gentleman of the Hebrew persuasion holds forth at present in part of Mr. Jacob Sankey's property on Main street, with a dry goods store. A red flag designates his place of business.

—M. L. Blair, Alderman 5th Ward, Scranton, Pa., stated Nov. 9, '83 : He had used Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for sprains, burns, cuts, bruises and rheumatism. Cured every time.

--Just received several new patterns of Sunbury prisonmade rag carpets, as well as new Brussels carpet. They are regular beauties and sold at popular prices. D. S. KAUFFMAN & Co.

—Our skillful marble cutter, Mr. A. C. Musser, can cut a straighter line and with a much brighter eye since the arrival of that pretty little girl at his house last week. All parties doing well.

—Costiveness is the primary cause of much disease. Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters will permanently cure costiveness. Every bottle warranted. Sold by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—Quite a number of new fences have been going up on the Water street premises lately. The property holders on that street think it soon time for the town council to pay some attention to road improvements in their district.

—The care, precision, neatness and perfection exhibited by the very appearance of Simmons Liver Regulator proves that it is the best prepared medicine in the market, fully carrying out the motto : "Purissima et Optima," (purest and best.)

—If you are in need of anything in the line of Spring Millinery Goods, be it a ribbon or a tull-trimmed hat or bonnet, go to Mrs. Anna M. Weaver's place on Penn street, where you will find a complete and well-selected stock and the latest styles.

—In Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment is combined the curative properties of the different oils, with the healing qualities of Arnica. Good for man and animal. Every bottle guaranteed. For sale by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—Mr. Elias Lose, of Penn street, did a good deed in reconstructing and raising the stone crossing, which connects the sidewalk with that of Mrs. Weaver's. The crossing had been about 6 inches too low and was a treacherous place to pass over on dark nights.

—Hartman's foundry have in employ that splendid mechanic, Mr. Henry Snyder, and the blacksmith work consequently moves right along now. Several necessary repairs were also made on the foundry building last week and they are making ready for a brisk summer trade.

—THE only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from poisonous drugs and other offensive odors. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases when all other remedies have failed. It quickly cures cold in the head and catarral headache. Price 50 cents. 17-4t.

—Only three licenses were granted by Judge Furst on this side of the mountain, viz : At Centre Hall, Old Fort and Spring Mills. Millheim, Coburn, Rebersburg, Aaronsburg were cut off and the fellows who are in the habit of indulging must patronize the western part of Pennsvalley or think of "sour grapes."

—There are excellent prospects that a six mile railroad will be built this summer from Bear Meadows to Oak Hall. A capitalist from New York city has been examining the lumber interests of that vicinity with the object of making a large purchase and if the purchase is completed the railroad will be built.—Bellefonte Daily News.

--Mrs. E. J. Brumgard, one of our enterprising milliners, left for the eastern cities on Monday, to purchase a fine stock of Spring Goods. As usual, she will upon her return astonish the ladies by her elegant selections and it will be to their interest to call on her early and get the best choice. Place of business, Wilt's brick house on Main street.

—When Dr. Stam gets through with the improvements on his premises on Penn street, he will have a real attractive and pleasant home. This week he had men at whitewashing all his outbuildings, the carpenters are enclosing the yard with a neat picket fence, and the tinner put on new spouting. The old, delapidated look has entirely departed from the property.

—By some oversight we failed to mention in last week's paper that Mr. S. W. Smith, of Centre Hall, was a caller at this office and presented the writer with a sample box of Dr. Smith's celebrated save, of which he is the manufacturer. He was doing Millheim and vicinity and sold a goodly number of boxes. The salve has a splendid reputation for its healing qualities.

—Friday and Saturday evening large crowds of people were attracted by the "medicine man" who offered his unfailing cures for sale in front of the National hotel. He introduced his goods by a number of clever tricks and his audience greatly enjoyed his slight of hand performances. As to his success in disposing of medicine we hear he sold a good amount of the stuff.

—INCREASED buoyancy of spirits, perfect assimilation of food, improved appetite, gain in flesh, sound refreshing sleep, heightened color in the cheeks and lips, added brilliancy to the eyes, follows the use of McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparillian Alterative. A bottle or two used in the family would obviate the entire train of spring maladies. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

—Notwithstanding the fact that nearly everybody is being squeezed by the hard times, the building and improvement boom in this town still keeps up and our mechanics have all the work they want.

—J. Wm. Miller, the younger son of our townsman, Mr. Henry Miller, left for Centre Hall yesterday afternoon, where he has a permanent job at tinsmithing with J. A. Reesman. We wish Will the best success in his new home.

--As spring advances with its occasional cool evenings the ladies stand in need of light Summer Shawls. We can help them out, if they will only come and examine the fine line we carry in this stock. D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—On last Monday Jerome Spigelmyer commenced selling out at cost all his goods at his stores in Millheim and Madisonburg, preparatory to moving into Musser & Smith's new room on Main street, June 1st. This a good chance to buy goods cheap.

—Among other proceedings of interest to this section at the late term of court were the cases of Wm. S. Musser and Jos. Kleckner whose applications for license are being held over until the June session, pending the trial of charges brought against them.

—Mr. Stewart, of Pleasant Gap, and his gang of men are running the brick yard, west of town, on full time. Mr. S. has the contract for getting out the necessary amount of pressed brick for Musser & Smith's new hardware building. The brick are made by steam process.

—Jos. R. Mann and wife, of Mill Hall, left on Friday for Larned, Kansas, which place they propose making their permanent home. We regret to see them leave Clinton county, but trust fortune will throw a broad smile upon them while dwellers in the wild west.--Clinton Democrat.

—Mr. Geo. Limbert, who during last winter so efficiently taught the primary school of Millheim, greeted his many friends in this town last Saturday. He is attending Prof. Hosterman's high school at Spring Mills this summer, and will no doubt enter upon next winter's term of teaching with a richer store of knowledge. He favored the JOURNAL with a pleasant call. Come again.

—IT IS NOW conceded on all sides that there is not and never has been a remedy of such remarkable efficacy as Curtis' Carmelite Cordial, in curing cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera morbus, summer complaints, cramps, pains in the bowels, or any intestinal irritation whatever, a single dose brings remarkable relief and a single bottle is guaranteed to cure any case or money refunded. A remarkable pain killer and valuable household remedy.

—A copy of the New York Star, the only straight out democratic daily in New York City, is on our table. It announces the removal of its offices to new and elegant quarters, giving an illustration of the Star building and its business offices. A surprising and overwhelming increase in its circulation made the removal to more spacious rooms necessary and its general tone and appearance are indicative of permanent and prosperous existence.

—Mr. J. H. Woomer and family, of Nittany Valley, have removed to this place, and reside at the toll gate, formerly kept by Mr. Jacob Heinle, dec'd. Mr. Woomer is a harness maker by trade and in connection with taking toll will carry on the harness making business. He wishes to inform the public that he is prepared to do all work in his line in the most satisfactory manner and asks for a liberal share of patronage.

—B. O. Deininger, the Journal store man has been cleaning up this week preparatory to the arrival of a new lot of goods. His stock of stationery, blank and schoolbooks, bibles and hymnbooks, cards of every discription, as well as fancy articles of innumerable variety is constantly being replenished and can not be excelled anywhere in the valley. Remember anything in his line may be found at his store in the Journal building Penn street. Prices to suit the times.

--We received information the other day of Mr. Emanuel Motz's marriage to a Southern lady, which occurred several week's ago. Mr. Motz, who is operating a gold mine in either North or South Carolina, we forget which, will be remembered by many of our readers. His three children, Misses Lola and Mattie, and Mr. Carl, the former two attending the New Berlin Seminary, the latter holding some position in Williamsport, several years ago had their home in this town.

—A band of gypsies encamped in A. R. Alexander's woods, below town, this week. They made themselves quite conspicuous by their fine horses, which they were trying to sell or trade off, while the female member of the gang is told fortunes to those who are anxious to have a look into the future. Another branch of their business was professional begging. These Nomadic tribes seem to exercise a strong fascination on some of our town people, and many paid a visit to the camp on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—The first quarterly meeting of Brush Valley Circuit of the Evangelical church will be held at Madisonburg on Saturday and Sunday, May 8th and 9th. Business session on Saturday at 2 o'clock, p. m., and preaching in the evening at 7.30 o'clock. On Sunday the S. school meets at 8.30 o'clock, a. m., and communion services will be held at 10.30 a. m. Preaching at 7.30 in the evening. Rev. J. M. Ettinger, P. E. of the district will be present to officiate. All lovers of Zion are requested to attend these services. H. S. BASOM, Pastor.

--Bring your boy for his spring outfit. We offer magnificent selections of Men's, Youth's, Boy's and Children's Clothing at very low prices. Don't fail to give us a trial.

D. S. KAUFFMAN & Co.

OBITUARY.—On Tuesday morning between the hours of seven and eight o'clock, death entered the home of Mr. W. C. Hubler, of Penn township, and took away his much-beloved wife. The lady had been suffering for nearly a year from what was supposed to be dyspepsia and several weeks before her death her recovery had been despaired of. Mrs. Hubler was a daughter of the late John Musser, tailor, of Haines township, and was 44 years old. She belonged to the Reformed church and was always known as a very quiet, christian woman. A sorrowing husband and two grown daughters are the surviving members of the family who deeply mourn the loss of a dear wife and mother.

The funeral will take place this [Thursday] forenoon at 9 o'clock, when her remains will be conveyed to Wolf's cemetery in Haines township, for interment.

--Superb--ourChenilleFringes. Come and see our elegant variety. D. S. Kauffman & Co.

CULTIVATION AND REFINEMENT.—Hon. B. S. Hewitt, ex-Speaker House Representatives, writes :

"J. A. McDonald.

Dear Sir :—I have been buying my flavoring Extracts for years from a Pittsburg manufacturer. Recently we tried a bottle of yours and found it very good indeed. Enclosed find five dollars. Send me its value in your Vanilla Extract.

Moral.—Always ask for McDonald's Flavoring Extracts.

Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

—Prof. Harry, who a few years ago gave such an excellent entertainment in the old Ev. church of this place, was in town last week to make arrangements for a similar entertainment to be given in the M. E. church, on the 24th instant.

Prof. Harry is the father of three wonderful little girls, aged respectively 8, 11 and 14 years, who are pronounced by all who witnessed their fine performances upon the violin and their marvelous vocal executions, to be the youngest highly educated children in the country. They are natural elecutionists and read and pronounce distinctly several languages. The entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Mite Society of the Methodist church and should for that reason be well attended. We advise everyone who has a chance, to go and embrace the opportunity of enjoying a rich and refined treat.

Neighboring News.

COBURN.

The main topic of conversation in our village during the week has been the license question. And now it is over and ye thirsty will be obliged to go to Spring Mills, the nearest point with a licensed house.

John Seriff has resigned as track foreman and a man by the name of Nibbley from Watsontown has taken his place.

Station agent Kreamer was called away on Tuesday last by the death of a relative.

We noticed some of our citizens repairing the board walk between the station and hotel, which has been in need of repairs for sometime. We should now have a board walk from the church to the bridge and hope our public spirited citizens will rise up and see that something is done in this direction. It is a shame to see the people in bad weather plodding through the mud almost knee-deep to and from the church.

Mrs. Katherman, of Mifflinburg, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Kreamer.

A Union Sunday school was organized here last Sabbath. The officers elected were : Geo. Swengle, Supt., Mr. Dutweiler, Asst. Supt., S. R. Gettig, Sec., B. Kerstetter, Asst. Sec., W. H. Kreamer, Treas., A. J. Campbell and A. T. Grenninger, Librarians. The school starts out well and promises to be a success. $17 were raised for the purpose of getting Sunday school literature.

There is some talk of 'Sqnire Gettig removing from our village. Sorry to lose 'Squire G., but wish you success in your new field.

Sam. Weiser, of Millheim, had quite an adventure in our town on Sunday, hauling a woman out of the creek who had fallen in head foremost. Was she heavy, Sam ?

The train going west on Monday forenoon struck and killed a cow just east of the station. The cow belonged to Joseph Kleckner. VALE.

—MANY CHILDREN suffer from day to day ; puny, pallid, fretful and feverish, variable appetite and restless sleep, finally die, and their parents never suspecting the real cause, that the little sufferers' stomachs are infested and eaten through with worms. Twenty-five cents invested in a box of McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders would save the doctor's bills and the patient's life. Entirely vegetable. Easy and pleasant to take. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

SMITH TOWN.

The blooming fruit trees look very promising.

The rye heads are beginning to peep out already, reminding us of the time when we will be "Comin' through the Rye."

Charley Gutelius, the popular buggy dealer, was among us last week and sold one of his fine buggies to that wide-awake young farmer, Charles Frankenberger.

W. F. Bressler was the first this spring to plant corn in this section.

Mrs. Maggie Smith intends taking a western trip, starting next Monday.

JUMBO.

AARONSBURG.

Umbrellas to mend—Shado !

Mrs. M. M. Musser has gone to Philadelphia to buy a stock of general merchandise.

Rev. Cur, (presbyterian) preached to a large audience in the M. E. church on last Sunday evening.

No license, no drink, wholesale or cocktail. No use in getting mad about it, you deserve nothing better.

D. Kline Musser, formerly of the Lewisburg University, has turned counter hopper in one of the stores in Shamokin, Pa. No more Latin and Greek, but instead, weights and measures.

Lew Mench is preparing to build a new barn on the lot he lately bought of the Wm Harter estate. Of course, the old century barn must come down and make place for the new.

The report last Saturday, that Frank Sylvis, who is engaged on a lumber job in Panther Hollow in the mountains, six miles from Fowler Station, had his leg broken, is not correct. A badly sprained ankle is the latest and correct report.

W. H. Philips and J. H. Musser were off to Shamokin last week on private business. We supposed it was private to themselves, but the boys say they were gone to buy a store. I guess the boys are right.

Oh for that reservoir to dump in all the pigs that are let loose on our streets. It is a shame that the entire town must suffer the annoyance of pigs running at large, and belonging to a few men who are able to keep them properly inclosed. Let's have a borough.

Thos. Harter, of the Middleburg, [Pa.] Post, and his brother William, of Hartleton, Pa., spent last Sunday in town. They brought the sad intelligence of the recent and unexpected death of the wife of their brother, Israel Harter, who resides at Canal Fulton, Stark Co., Ohio. ANOTHER.

SPRING MILLS.

Bitner & Horner the proprietors of the Spring Mills bottling establishment have a new delivery wagon. It is nicely painted and lettered so as to advertise the business as it goes over the road.

We will have a music printing establishment in our town in the near future. It is expected to be in operation in a few weeks.

We notice quite a number of strangers on our streets, who no doubt came here for a quiet rest during the summer months.

T. Benton Ulrich, editor of the Selins Grove Times, passed through this place on Monday evening, en route for Penn Hall, which place he intends to make his future home.

Daniel Runkle, one of our prominent citizens in attempting to cross the mill race on Monday on a foot log slipped and fell headlong into the water. He however did not sustain any injuries but was ready for a dry suit.

Quite an excitement was created on last Saturday by the mysterious disappearance of Moses Walter's child, which is only about two years old. Fears were at once entertained that the child had fallen in the mill race and a vigorous search was made. After about two hours it was learned that the child had wandered down to J. D. Horners', from whence it was quickly restored to the arms of its almost frantic mother.

WOODWARD.

S. D. Burris, mine host of the "Traveler's Rest," lately has been entertaining quite a number of guests.

Miss Jennie & Sadie Walter, of Lewisburg, during the week will visit their mother at this place.

The Sunday School has resumed for the summer with a large attendance.

George Vonada talks of purchasing a cider press which will surpass any press in the valley.

Our village smith shop sports a new roof.

Since you have no license up there the boys will have to come to Woodward to get the stuff to "paint the town red." Prophet Noah with amazing forethought prepared for a flood. Our Noah, seemingly prophetic, has well provided against a dry spell.

ARGENTI.

MADISONBURG.

Reuben Grimm has his house ready for the plasterers.

E. S. Shafer had the misfortune to lose his best horse last week.

Miss Ellie Miller is slowly recovering from a severe spell of sickness.

Mr. Beck's new goods have arrived.

Prof. Robinson, of Baltimore city, will lecture to the Sunday schools of this place this [Thursday] evening in the Reformed church.

Miss Minnie Bierly has returned from Lock Haven.

Miss Mary Stover spent Sunday at home with her parents.

Miss Alice Nestleroad has gone to Mifflinburg to visit friends.

The Evangelical Association of this circuit will have their quarterly meeting here next Saturday and Sunday. Communion services on Sunday forenoon.

B. W. Royer purchased a horse the other day.

Miss Minnie Coats, of Farmers' Mills, is sojourning in our town at present.

H. R. Fiedler also was so unfortunate as to lose his driving mare, the little gray.

Mr. Charles Bitner, of Lock Haven, spent a few days with Geo. Reber on business.

J. Spigelmyer commenced closing out his store goods. That leaves a good opening for another merchant. Madisonburg and vicinity could support two stores. STILL ANOTHER.

COSTIVENESS

affects seriously all the digestive and assimilative organs, including the Kidneys. When these organs are so affected, they fail to extract from the blood the uric acid, which, carried through the circulation, causes Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

The functions of the Liver are also affected by costiveness, causing Bilious Disorders.

Among the warning symptoms of Biliousness are Nausea, Dizziness, Headache, Weakness, Fever, Dimness of Vision, Yellowness of Skin, Pains in the Side, Back and Shoulders, Foul Mouth, Furred Tongue, Irregularity in the action of the Bowels, Vomiting, etc.

The Stomach suffers when the bowels are constipated, and Indigestion or follows. Fetid Breath, Gastric Pains, Headache, Acidity of the Stomach, Waterbrash, Nervousness, and Depression, are all evidences of the presence of this distressing malady. A Sure Relief for irregularities of the Stomach and all consequent diseases, will be found in the use of AYER'S PILLS.

Dyspepsia,

They stimulate the stomach, free the bowels, healthfully invigorate the torpid liver and kidneys, and by their cleansing, healing and tonic properties, strengthen and purify the whole system, and restore it to a salutary and normal condition.

John Dubois' Fortunate and Favorite Nephew.

CLEARFIELD, April 28.—John Dubois, the bachelor lumber king of Pennsylvania, filed here yesterday an absolute deed, conveying all his property, valued at about $8,000,000, to his favorite nephew, John E. Dubois. The deed bears date January 17, 1884, so that, although for more than two years young John Dubois has been in his uncle's employ, taking orders from whatever superintendent he chanced to be working under, he has been the actual owner of the entire property. Nobody knew it but himself and his uncle. The senior Dubois, who is 77 years old, has been ailing lately, and decided to make the deed public. The only consideration in the deed is that John E. Dubois shall pay all debts and fill all contracts his uncle may make till the day of his death.

His purpose in making the deed was to make sure that his business should go on in single and absolute ownership, just as he had conducted it for the period of 20 years, after his death, and that the 800 workmen in his employ should not be distressed by the stoppage or embarassment of his enterprise. The deed makes no mention of any of the other heirs, of whom there are a great many, John Dubois being the only bachelor in a family of 14. It is left entirely to the conscience of John E. Dubois whether any of them shall have any share in the estate or not. The young man is about 25 years old and unmarried. He was educated at Chester Military Academy.

Attention, Ye Fishermen!

Potato Bugs as a Bait for Trout.

The Williamsport Bulletin says: Constable Andrew Cassidy returned from a successful trout fishing expedition in Gamble Township yesterday. When spoken to in regard to his success the genial officer stated that the secret of it all was in the kind of bait used—potato bugs. Red worms were first tried, but as the fish did not seem to have any particular appetite for that kind of food something more tempting was looked for. A large potato bug was observed crawling out of his hole, and he was quickly impaled on the hook. In an instant bug and hook were swallowed by a huge trout. More bugs were secured, and in a short time the Constable started home with a well-filled basket.

Blossoms and Promise.

May is the month of blossoms, of promise, of hope, of seed-time. What the future has in store we do not know, except that the harvest "shall not fail," at least not the world over. Single crops may go amiss. Drouths may and will come, some whole sections may suffer, but we will plan and work, cheered by the hope of a bountiful return, gladdened by the rain and by the sunshine, thankful that labor well applied earns its reward from the willing earth. The sentence passed by the All wise Judge, "By the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread," may seem severe to the lover of ease. Had it been given as a panacea for all the ills which afflict mankind it might have been differently regarded, but none the less a blessing. This reward of labor we are too apt to overlook. Health, as the highest award of toil, is ours; pecuniary profits may foot up more or less, but with seasonable care not to overwork or overstrain, not to overtax endurance of mind or body, to take time to rest, to provide plain, well-cooked food, and reasonable relaxation, being temperate in all things, we can afford to be contented with very moderate pecuniary gains. The coming out of warm weather is often trying to strong constitutions. Moderation is desirable. We take care not to overtax our teams, why should we take less care of ourselves?—American Agriculturist for May.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

THE GREAT Unfailing Specific FOR LIVER DISEASE.

SYMPTOMS: Bitter or bad taste in mouth; tongue coated white or covered with a brown fur; pain in the back, sides, or joints—often mistaken for Rheumatism; sour stomach; loss of appetite; sometimes nausea and waterbrash, or indigestion; flatulency and acid eructations; bowels alternately costive and lax; headache; loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; debility; low spirits; a thick, yellow appearance of the skin and eyes; a dry cough; fever; restlessness; the urine is scanty and high-colored, and, if allowed to stand, deposits a sediment.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR,

PURELY VEGETABLE,

AN EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC FOR

Malaria,	Dyspepsia,
Constipation,	Biliousness,
Sick Headache,	Jaundice,
Nausea,	Colic,
Mental Depression,	Bowel Complaints,
Etc., Etc., Etc.,

Is generally used in the South to arouse the Torpid Liver to a healthy action.

It acts without disturbance to the system, diet or occupation. It regulates the Liver, and causes the bile to act as the purge. The excess of bile being removed, a tonic effect is produced and health is perfectly restored.

The Regulator is given with safety and the happiest results to the most delicate infant. For all diseases in which a laxative, alterative or purgative is needed it will give the most perfect satisfaction. The Cheapest, Purest and Best Family Medicine in the World!

PYÆMIA

Is the most virulent form of blood-poisoning. Less speedily fatal, but not less certainly so, is the vitiation of the blood of which the first symptoms are Pimples, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions. When the taint of Scrofula gives warning of its presence by such indications, no time should be lost in using AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, the only perfect and reliable medicine for the purification of the blood.

SCROFULA

Is a foul corruption in the blood that rots out all the machinery of life. Nothing will eradicate it from the system and prevent its transmission to offspring but AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. This preparation is also the only one that will cleanse the blood of Mercurial poison and the taint of Contagious Diseases. Impoverished blood is productive of

ANÆMIA,

A wretched condition indicated by Pallid Skin, Flaccid Muscles, Shattered Nerves, and Melancholy. Its first symptoms are Weakness, Languor, Loss of Nerve Force, and Mental Dejection. Its course, unchecked, leads inevitably to insanity or death. Women frequently suffer from it. The only medicine that, while purifying the blood, enriches it with new vitality, and invigorates the whole system, is

QUAKER

Is the Best

TABLE SAUCE.

Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has Slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor men, greatly prized and relished by all on account of its piquancy, aroma, taste, strength and pureness. The inventor has by years of study of the secret virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and buds of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it, of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer cheaper than the very best imported article hardly equaling ours. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.
